

Claro is delighted to announce that last week we had our final stage assessment for ISO13485. The audit was conducted by BSI and the Assessor has recommended that we be immediately approved to this industry standard for the manufacture of surgical instruments and implants. We feel strongly that this will further underline our commitment to the medical device industry and the quality systems we have in place.

The certificate will be issued very shortly and will appear on the Claro website's home page.